

Privacy Statement

Veolia District Heating Customers

Introduction

Everyone has rights with regard to how their personal information is handled. During the course of our activities we will collect, store and process personal information about our customers and Veolia recognises the need to treat your information in an appropriate and lawful manner.

This statement sets out how we will process your data in line with current data protection legislation.

What information we collect

In order for Veolia to provide services to you we must collect certain information about you as an individual, such as name, address, property details, telephone number, mobile phone number, email address, banking information, credit and debit card details, payment history and telephone recordings. We may obtain this information either from yourself or from third parties with whom you've already shared your personal information (i.e. a landlord, letting agent or property management company).

Why do we need this information?

To provide you with energy and additional services, Veolia must process your personal information for the following reasons:

- Account registration – in order to set up your account we are required to obtain specific data and confirmation of registration where third parties are involved.
- Account life cycle management – obtaining meter and related equipment details, energy and additional services billing, payments collection and processing and debtor account management.
- Customer Support- Queries and complaints handling will be managed using account information and history, for quality and training purposes communications may be monitored and recorded.
- Improving our services- in order to monitor and update our services and communications we may carry out customer surveys.

We may further process your personal information in order to establish and manage accounts and communications while improving your customer experience in line with the terms and conditions of your supply.

This processing of your personal information is necessary for:

- the performance of the contract under which services are provided
- to comply with our legal obligations

Information sharing

We may occasionally need to share your personal information within the Veolia Group and with other parties. Below is a list of possible recipients we may share your information with:

Privacy Statement

Veolia District Heating Customers

- In order to support the process for transferring customer information between Energy Service Providers we may be required to share certain personal information with previous, current and future suppliers to help transfer operations and establish the details of any outstanding debt.
- In order to carry out credit checks prior to entering into an agreement we may share personal information with financial or credit reference agents.
- In order to meet legal and regulatory requirements we may share personal information with fraud prevention agencies.
- For debt management purposes we may in certain cases be required to share personal information with debt collection agents.
- We may disclose information when required by law or legal process for the administration of justice, to protect your vital interest, for investigations by law enforcement or regulatory bodies, to protect and defend Veolia's property and legal rights or by order of a valid order from a court or law enforcement agency.
- Organisations who act as service providers to Veolia such as providers of telecommunications, IT, security postal services, data storage, document storage and destruction, fraud detection and financial transaction processing.
- We may also pass personal information to our agents and service providers and group companies when relevant for these purposes, including the use of cloud providers.

How long do we keep this data?

We will retain this personal information about you for as long as is necessary for the purpose for which it was collected, in particular:

- We will retain the data for as long as is necessary for us to provide you with services that you request or purchase.
- We will retain records of any transactions you enter into with us for services requested or utilised for a period of up to 3 years after the date of the transaction giving us enough information to deal with related queries or disputes in this time.

Your rights

Under Data Protection law you have rights related to how we protect and look after your personal information. You have the right to ask us for your personal information that we hold and process about you. This is known as a subject access request.

You can also ask:

- a. that any inaccurate information we hold about you is corrected;
- b. that we delete information about you in certain situations;
- c. that we stop using your personal information for certain purposes;
- d. that we don't make decisions about you by completely automated means;
- e. that personal information you have given us be provided to you in a common machine readable format, or sent to a third party where this is technically feasible;

The rights set out above may apply in limited circumstances, and we may not always be able to comply with your request to exercise these rights. We will always try to respond to a request to exercise your rights within 1 month.

If you are unhappy with the way we handle your personal information, please contact us at the address below. We will try to address your concerns. If you have a complaint about the way we have handled your information, you can contact the Information Commissioner's Office who is the relevant authority in the UK, or the Data Protection Commissioner who is the relevant authority in the Republic of Ireland.

Privacy Statement

Veolia District Heating Customers

Company Information:

The data controller is Veolia Energy Service Ireland Limited

For enquiries or requests, please email uki.dataprotection@veolia.com

Registered head office:

8th Floor, 210 Pentonville Road, London, N1 9JY

Registered in England